A Proclamation
By the Governor of the State of Arkansas

Whereas, representations have been made to me, that numerous Indians, are roving about the state, particularly in Union County, without any fixed place of abode, and committing depredations upon the property of the citizens contrary to the laws of the United States,

Therefore I James S. Conway, Governor of the State of Arkansas, in order to prevent difficulties from arising by said ^{the} Indians trespassing on the lands within the limits of this State, do hereby order them to depart beyond the limits thereof, under the penalties prescribed by law.

And the Commandants of Regiments of the Militia in the several counties in the State, and all subordinate officers, are required to give their aid in carrying this order into effect.

Given under my hand at Little Rock, the 18th day of July. A. D. 1840.

By the Governor

J. S. Conway.
