The following is a true copy of agreement between E. Kirby Smith Lt. Gen. and Harris Flanagin Gov.

Agreement.

Note of agreement between E. Kirby Smith Lieutenant General Commanding the Trans-Mississippi Department and H. Flanagin Gov. of the State of Arkansas.

H. Flanagin with the concurrence of the Military Board is to raise a volunteer force to be between the ages of forty and fifty years for service in the field; to be for the present under his immediate command, and hereafter to be under the immediate command of Such Brigadier Generals as shall be appointed by the State Authorities, all to be subject to the command of generals commanding the Department and the District, or other general officers according to the Confederate States regulations.

General Smith agrees to not interfere with members of the command, who are above forty years of age and subject to the conscript law, to supply such forces with arms and ammunition, Quartermaster and Commissary Stores, and not to remove said forces beyond the limits of the state, except, with the consent of the State Authorities:

The arms will be furnished as soon as they can be obtained.
